

Learn how to combine a passion for gardening with helping people through the innovative field of horticultural therapy.

Join students from across the country to learn more about this exciting field by enrolling in Introduction to Horticultural Therapy this fall in Michigan. At the non-profit, Horticultural Therapy Institute (HTI), our mission is to provide education and training in HT to those new to, or experienced with, the practice of using gardening and plants to improve the lives of others. Our faculty is dedicated to teaching best practices with passion, and our past students form a community of learners that become horticultural therapy practitioners in a variety of settings. Take one class, or the full certificate program and see how our curriculum can meet your needs. The class will be offered at the The University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor, MI., Nov. 11-14, 2010. HTI faculty member, Karen Kennedy, HTR will be the instructor. The class cost is $750 or $600 for full-time college students. Remaining certificate classes will be held in Colorado and California. The certificate program offers ten semester credits of HT coursework from Colorado State University. For full class descriptions, schedules and enrollment forms go to our web site at www.htinstitute.org or call 303-388-0500.
